CATHEDRAL RUINS DUNKELD

TUCK'S POST CARD

CARTE POSTALE. POSTKARTE.

By Appointment.

Dunkeld Cathedral dates back from very early ages. The age of the present ruin is uncertain, but it is known that the foundation was laid in the sixth century when St. Columba's followers founded a religious house on this site. Partially destroyed by the Reformers, only sufficient of the building is now in repair to suffice for the religious needs of the locality, but the remainder though in ruins is a fine specimen of Early Gothic work.
